

GLOBAL HEALTH FACULTY-LED ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

This is an exciting year for OTS' academic programs. We are working with a number of academic partners to deliver high-end, transformative learning experiences for undergraduate and postgraduate students. In 2019, we are hosting, co-designing, and co-implementing programs to address some of the most pressing issues in the field of Global Health.

Students will experience firsthand the challenges of Global Health, including the barriers and difficulties of providing health access to vulnerable populations, challenges of migration and health, demographic and epidemiological transitions -particularly with growing urban areas. Moreover, students will learn from Costa Rica's social innovations and its unique universal healthcare system.
